

Thinking about Varied Expressions of Memories and History

Recall your work with the American Memory Web site and assignment as you answer one of the following questions:

Choice 1: Think about the way the information was written and presented on the Web site. How would the writing and presentation be different if you were expressing an event from your own life?

Choice 2: A Web site is an effective way to record, store, and share information on a large scale, such as an American history. What are the various ways that events from your life have been recorded?
