

Then and Now Poetry Reflection

What did you learn about your responses to the September 11th tragedy through writing your Then-Now poem?

Think about the poem by a classmate that was most different from yours. What made it so different? What can you learn from that different response to the same event?

How do you think your response to/understanding of September 11th might be different in 10 more years?